

Big Appetite, Accent Help Clear Roach

In Boro Girl's Murder

By ROGER KOHN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

His northern accent and a king-sized appetite helped clear 18-year-old Wayne Roach of any connection with the murder of Carol Ann Dougherty.

After a weekend of questioning and checking, the Trenton youth was formally cleared of suspicion at 6:30 o'clock last night and allowed to leave Bristol Borough Police Station.

"We've checked his alibi thoroughly, and it holds up. We've got no reason to hold him at the present time, and so we've let him go," Bristol Police Chief Vincent Faragalli said last night.

Since November

Police had been searching for the youth since November, after reports that he had been seen in Bristol on Oct. 22, the day that Carol Ann's body was found in St. Mark's Church, Bristol.

They never listed Roach as a suspect, always insisting that they merely wanted to talk to him.

Roach was finally located on Friday, and three police officers working on the case went down to Midway Island, Va., to talk to him.

Roach told them that he had been out of the Bristol area since September, and that on Oct. 22 he was working as a laborer in Alexandria, Va.

Worked With Contractor

The three police officers took him back to Alexandria, where Roach said he had been working from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. for a local contractor who was putting in a driveway at a private home.

The contractor identified Roach, and he was also recognized by the couple who lived in the house where the driveway had been installed.

"They remembered Roach be-

County Assn. OKs 1st Unit Of Fire School

The Bucks County Firemen's Association took the initial step of its more than $100,000 fire school plan by voting to construct an $11, 670 unit immediately.

Sixty-two firemen, representing 27 of the 64 volunteer firefighting companies, at a special meeting at Midway Fire House at Lahaska on Saturday, unanimously voted to build a 40 by 60 foot structure on the fire school site in Doylestown Township, near Edison.

2 Rooms

The building will contain two rooms, one that is modeled after a home and the other a store. A second and third floor will be added at one end of the building as the firemen receive more money.

Louis C. Leedom, Yardley, treasurer of the association, reported $11,245 in the fire school building fund. William Ettenger, Newtown Fire Company chief, boosted that amount when he presented the county association with the check for $1,000 from his fire company.

John Ziaylek, Yardley fire chief, chairman of the building committee, said the building will be made of cinder block with concrete floors. The hollow section in the cinder blocks will be filled with concrete. The concrete floor will be made in slabs.

Praises Cooperation

Alvin Wagenseller, Parkland, president of the county association, expressed gratitude for the cooperation of the firemen and urged each fire company to keep contributing money until the fire school is completed.

Martin E. Smith, Levittown, secretary, said the building committee was authorized to go ahead with the construction at once. It will not be built by one contractor.

The State Department, in announcing the swift U.S. move, also extended to the new regime "best wishes for success and prosperity" and expressed hope that "traditional ties of friendship" between the American and Iraqi people would be "expanded and strengthened."

The State Department said the action was taken after the new government, headed by Col. Abdel Salam Aref, pledged that it would honor "international obligations" of the previous government.

Iraq's new rebel regime executed two generals and two other officers today but travelers arriving in Lebanon from Baghdad reported "dead quiet" in the capital for the first time since fighting erupted Friday.

West German member of Parliament Rudolph Werner said streets were empty and only a few shops were open. Tanks and armored cars moved through the streets continuously.

"Yesterday, there was firing all over the city as troops smoked over Communists, but today I did not hear any shooting," he said. "Everything was dead quiet today, almost frighteningly so."

Werner said that the people of Baghdad appear to show no signs of joy over the end of Kassan's four and one-half years of rule and his replacement by pro-Nasser military leaders.

They're indifferent and though there was no shooting today, the whole place does not smell good," he said.

Other travelers reported pictures of the new leaders are now being distributed but few Iraqis are putting them up.

Youth's Jaw Broken By Hit-Run Driver

A late model cherry red convertible car with a white top is being sought by Bensalem police.

A car fitting that description early yesterday struck a Philadelphia youth walking on Route

13 near Gravel Pike, Bensalem, then sped on.

The victim, George W. Lee, 18, of 3532 Oakmont St., is in serious condition in Lower Bucks County Hospital today with a fractured jaw, lacerations of the face and other head injuries.

Witnessing the accident at 2:55 a.m. was Lee's friend, Carl Perene, 19, of 4237 Longshore Ave., Philadelphia.

Backs Up, Leaves

Perene told police that the convertible struck his friend, then after going a short distance, backed up to the scene of the accident.

When the driver saw what had happened, Perene said, he stepped on the gas peddle and sped away. Perene said it looked like he had a woman passenger with him.

Perene said he was walking just ahead of his friend when he

Hunt Pressed For Tanker

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Planes and ships fanned out over the Atlantic today in an effort to solve the deepening mystery of a tanker missing for eight days with 39 crewmen aboard.

There was no clue to whether the 524-foot Marine Sulphur Queen, carrying a cargo of molten sulphur, had exploded and sunk or was lost or disabled.

A Coast Guard officer speculated that if the hot sulphur had come in contact with the water a steam explosion would follow, causing "the whole thing to go up like an atom bomb."

Negro Family Starts Anew In Trenton

TRENTON (UPI) — A Shreveport, La., Negro family of 10 were starting new lives here today following an all-night bus trip paid by the Louisiana White Citizens Council that landed them here Sunday.

Alan and Ruth Gilmore and their eight children have been temporarily lodged in the Jersey Hotel while the state National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) makes arrangements for a house, furniture, clothing and money. Gilmore, a former cab driver, has been promised a $50-a-week janitorial job.

The White Citizens Council gave the Gilmores 10 one-way bus tickets, a can of sardines and the address of the 92-year-old aunt of Deputy U.S. Attorney General Nicholas De Belleville Katzenbach, who lives in the fashionable Carteret Arms apartment here.

Katzenbach was in charge of the U.S. Marshalls who assisted Negro James H. Meredith when he entered the University of Mississippi last fall. The Citizens Council sent Katzenbach a telegram which said "We know you will protect their (the Gilmores) civil rights and give equal job opportunities."

The NAACP said a job offer was made Gilmore by the Technical Maintenance Products Inc. of Philadelphia, a janitorial service firm. Trenton Mayor Arthur Holland said the city would be required to provide public assistance for the family if they make a request for help.

400 Search 3 Hours For Twins, Chum

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Three Bristol Terrace boys — eight-year-old twins and their seven-year-old chum — went out to play yesterday afternoon, just like thousands of other youngsters did in warming 40-degree temperatures.

Playing a game of "soldiers," the trio apparently decided to stage a "battle" on ice-covered Langenfelder Lake, located in Bristol Township about a quarter-of-a-mile from their home.

Sometime between 2 p.m., when they told their mothers they were going out to play, and 8 p.m., when 400 volunteer rescuers began an extensive search throughout the area, the boys apparently fell through the thin ice.

30 Feet Offshore

Confirmation of the tragic news, which the boys' parents and hundreds of parents in the area were hoping against, came at 10:35 p.m. when the first of the three bodies was recovered in 15 feet of water about 30 feet offshore.

Victims of the accidental drowning were Daniel and Stephen Graziosa, eight-year-old twins of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Graziosa of 402 Court A, Bristol Terrace 2, and Sidney Taylor, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Taylor, 509 Court B, Terrace 2.

Discovery of the bodies came when the Bucks County Rescue Squad's light truck spotted a breakthrough in the ice about 10:30 p.m. Two boats were put into the lake and rescuers began chipping away at the ice.

Plastic Toy Helmet

The body of Stephen Graziosa was the first recovered at 10:35 p.m. His brother, Daniel, was pulled ashore at 11:05 p.m. The Taylor boy, still wearing the plastic toy helmet which he had when he left home, was found at 11:23 p.m.

Bodies of the three boys were taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital by ambulances of the Bucks County and Delaware Valley Rescue Squads. They were pronounced dead at the hospital by Dr. Howard Leister. Deputy Bucks County Coroner John C. Black said that death was caused by accidental drowning and that no autopsies would be made.

For more than three hours the boys were the objects of one of the most extensive searches staged by units of the Interstate Marine Association.

Mrs. Wanda Taylor, Sidney's mother, first notified Bristol Township police at 6:30 p.m. that the boys were missing.

T. Thomas Stewart and Patrolmen Woodrow Wilson and John Schwab were dispatched to the homes and immediately began a search of the neighboring area.

Unable to find traces of the boys

Good Evening!

Another job for Governor Scranton.

Knocking management and union heads together in this Red Arrow Lines strike, that is, and getting West Philadelphia transit facilities operating again. The larger job, of course, must be legislation outlawing such paralyzers.

President and Mrs. Kennedy spend the weekend on a walking binge in New York and Washington.

Could be the President is in training for the 50-mile trudge.

Great possibilities in that idea, we think. If everybody in the country started hiking the nation might become healthy again. And a great day for the chiropractors.

Jet flyers having a ball in Bucks County skies yesterday.

That sonic boom a real shaker. And it probably shook a lot of sleepy-heads right out of bed.

Quite a shocker, incidentally, that drowning tragedy in which three little boys perished in Langenfelder Lake.

Quite a lot of water around in Lower Bucks and danger is always obvious. The question is, of course, whether proper safeguards are being taken to protect children at some of these larger man-made ponds.

Weather on the mild side and if you haven't already taken that Florida vacation, forget it.

In another month we'll be sailing right toward spring and the azaleas.

Tact is making your guests feel at home when they wish they were.

Just one thing we don't like about vacations. We miss the coffee break.

Drive carefully, please.

3 On Fitness Hike: 'Last Five Agony'

Marine Reservists Only Make 30 Miles

By DAN STUDEBAKER
Courier-Times Staff Writer

"The last five miles were agony."

This was how Marine Reserve Chief Warrant Officer John T. George, 49, of 740 Hulmeville Road, Langhorne, described the end of a 30-mile march he and two other Lower Bucks Marine reservists took yesterday.

They were trying to walk 50 miles, but assorted aches and pains forced them to stop.

It all started when President Kennedy told Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine Corps commandant, to implement a 1908 order by Theodore Roosevelt requiring officers periodically to hike 50 miles within three days.

George, Captain James F. Clarke Jr., 33, of 221 Walton Drive, Penn Square, Morrisville, and Gunnery Sergeant Ray Morgan, 35, of 2113 Wilson Ave., Bristol, may not be finished yet.

Under terms of the Roosevelt dictum, they still have time to finish the march successfully, George said he may do so.

President Roosevelt said marchers were permitted to stop for rests and sleep provided the distance was covered in 20 hours of actual marching.

Too Fast

"They marched a bit too fast to make it all at one time, according to George. They went the 30 miles in a little over seven hours, finally being forced to retire because of blisters, muscle strains and, in Morgan's case, a sore knee.

In addition to these complaints, George said he got woozy after eating a bowl of hot soup and drinking a glass of cold water.

George and Clarke started in Langhorne at 4 a.m. Morgan fell in near the Trenton Freeway bridge. They finally gave up on Route 33, outside Hightstown, N.J. They were aiming for Freehold, N.J.

May Try Again

"I'm sorry we didn't make it and I'd like to try it again," George said.

The men carried packs weighing more than 20 pounds, but the

Levittowner Honored For Blind Work

One of Bucks County's most active workers for the blind received recognition for his services Saturday night when he was named "Levittown Citizen of the Year 1962" by the Levittown Lions Club.

He is William Kelius, 67 Spinythorn Road, Snowball Gate, Levittown, who was presented with a commemorative plaque at the Levittown Lions Club Charter Night banquet at the Sherwood House, Route 1.

Kelius, who works as a roller in the sheet and tin department of the U. S. Steel Co. Fairless Works, became interested in working for the blind soon after he arrived in Levittown in 1962.

A friend introduced him into Levittown Lions Club, which, like other Lions Clubs, takes a special interest in aiding the blind.

His interest grew from then on. He is now a member of the board of directors of the Bucks County Association for the Blind, a director of the Beacon Lodge Summer Camp for the blind, and a member of the Delaware Valley Eye Bank and is a past president of the Lions Club.

Swim, Bowl
Kelius has taken a great interest in a Lions program to aid blind children, teaching them how to swim and also how to bowl.

He helped found a substation of the Delaware Valley Eye Bank at the Lower Bucks County Hospital some five years ago.

He is married, and he and his wife, Elizabeth, have two children, William Robert, 9, and Christine, who was 8 years old yesterday.

Kelius was born in Philadelphia, and came to Levittown from Middletown, Ohio, where he was working in another steel mill.

Various Interests
Mrs. Kelius also manages to keep herself busy with several interests.

Five years ago she founded the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society, and is a past president of the chapter. She is also a member of the Princeton chapter.

Mrs. Kelius is a troop leader of Brownie Troop 56, and an assistant den mother in Den Five, Cub Scout Pack 110. She is also a member of the Fairless Hills Garden Club.

Centennial's Claude Lodge Will Retire

By DAN WECK
Courier-Times Staff Writer
Claude Lodge, the unofficial "dean" of Lower Bucks athletic directors, is retiring from his position with the Centennial Joint Schools.

The resignation, which the joint board accepted with reluctance, is to take effect at the end of the spring term of school.

Lodge, in his early 50's, is taking a step into a new career, he has also started on the new career of being a grandfather for the first time.

Started In 1933

The man who started his teaching career at Buckingham High in 1933 fresh from a brilliant football and baseball record in college, said that he does not know, now, what he will be doing next. "I do know that it will be something close to teaching," he said.

"In my 30 years in education, 29 with this school system, I have been a coach, classroom teacher, principal, director of health and physical education, director of health for the entire system, and director of athletics," he said.

"I've enjoyed my work with athletics and with sports activities for the past 29 years," he added, "but most of all I've enjoyed my contacts with the kids."

To Southampton In 1934

Lodge came to old Southampton High School in 1934, at the top teaching salary, for depression days, of $1400. That was a raise, for at Buckingham he had been receiving $1080, which was also a good depression salary.

Last year the Centennial Joint Schools athletics director received the Courier-Times 1961 Service Sports Award, as dean of the Lower Bucks athletic directors.

Probably his most prized award, however, is the game ball from a college football game in which he played, and starred, and the team lost.

Lodge-6; Army-60

Lodge was given the ball by the coach of the 1932 Army team, for making the longest run of the season against unbeaten Army.

In a game which saw Lodge's Ursinus football team lose by a lopsided 60 to 6 score, Lodge intercepted an Army pass to run 80 yards and score the lone six points for Ursinus.

He came to Southampton as a history teacher and coach. At first he coached all three sports at the school, soccer, basketball, and baseball. He played semi-professional baseball then, also, for the Landreth Seed team.

When Soccer was dropped by Southampton in the early 1940's in favor of football, Claude Lodge took over coaching that.

Mother Of 2 Found Dead

A Levittown mother of two was found dead in her home early Saturday morning, having taken her life, Bristol Township police reported today.

Mrs. Evelyn Edmiston, 45, of 9 Dahlia Lane, Dogwood Hollow, was found dead at 3:12 a.m. by her husband, Philip.

Deputy Bucks County Coroner John C. Black said death was caused by suicide.

Lt. Richard Templeton and Patrolmen Edward Martin and Aaron Kelton, Bristol Township police, stated that Mrs. Edmiston shot herself in the right temple with a revolver.

until his innocence had been established.

Familiar To Witness
Yesterday, one of the witnesses who claimed to have seen him in Bristol on Oct. 22, picked him out of a line-up of seven youths — but Faragalli said that this was probably because the witness had seen Roach once before, and therefore the youth was familiar to him.

"On the strength of what the three officers found out in Virginia, and the interrogation today and yesterday, I feel that at this time we have nothing to hold him on as far as the murder is concerned," Faragalli said yesterday.

Roach had been all over the country since leaving Trenton in September, including New York, California and the south. While in Rockingham, N. C., in November he was picked up by local police, but later released.

Jumped Parole
He told Faragalli that he had not returned to Trenton when he learned that police wished to question him because he had jumped parole for an auto theft and was afraid to return.

He was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Eugene Spadacino yesterday and cleared of the technical charge of suspicion of murder.

Faragalli said today that he is still confident that the case will be solved.

"We still have a couple of good suspects under investigation," he said. He praised the police officers on the case for their work in clearing Roach, and also other police departments for their cooperation.

Witnesses Questioned
At the same time, the witnesses who claimed to have seen Roach in Bristol on the day of the murder were also questioned again.

Roach was given four more lie detector tests in Philadelphia, and his reactions to the questions led police to believe that he was telling the truth when he denied any connection with the crime, said Faragalli.

Roach was allowed to sleep in a cell in Bristol Police Station on Saturday night, after he told police that he was afraid to leave

2 Firemen Hurt On Way To Search

Four persons, including two firemen enroute to take part in the search for the three boys who drowned in Langenfelder Lake, were injured last night in a two-car collision.

The mishap at 8:30 p.m. took place a few hundred yards from the spot where the bodies of the three boys were discovered late last night. It occurred at the intersection of Oxford Valley Road and Lakeland Ave. in Bristol Township.

The injured firemen of Levittown Fire Co. No. 2 were John J. Kelly, 40, of 9 Iroquois Road, Indian Creek, Levittown, and James Mild Jr., 21, of 26 Forest Lane, Farmbrook, Levittown. Both were treated at Lower Bucks County Hospital for soft tissue injuries of the spine.

Police said the car in which they were riding was involved in a crash with a car in which two youths, Roland Scholl, 21, of 230 Court St., Pennedel, and Wayne Adamson, 16, of 141 Arbutus Ave., Langhorne, were occupants.

Scholl was treated at the hospital for soft tissue injury to his right leg while Adamson was treated for soft tissue injury to his right forearm.

After treatment on the scene by the Levittown - Fairless Hills Rescue Squad, they were transported to the hospital and later released.

Cat Missing In Levittown

A pedigreed Persian cat that is under doctor's care has been missing from its Levittown home since Jan. 28.

The cat is a long haired silver Persian, colored white with black tipping. It belongs to Mrs. Leslie Adam, 51 Spring Lane, Stoneybrook, Levittown, whose telephone number is WI 6-2765. A reward is offered for any information about the cat.

Fallsington Fire Probed By Police

Falls Police are today investigating the $20,000 fire of undetermined origin which destroyed most of a two-story frame building on Main Street and Lower Morrisville Road, Meetinghouse Square, Fallsington, early yesterday morning.

Destroyed were Jack's Grocery Store, operated by John Estadt of 730 Auburn Road, Fairless Hills, and one of two second floor apartments.

The blaze was discovered about 11:30 p.m. Saturday night and brought under control shortly after by the Falls Township Fire Companies. But the flames weren't completely extinguished until about 3 a.m. Sunday.

Historic Buildings

The blaze also threatened nearby historic buildings, particularly the Burges - Lippincott House which is located directly across Lower Morrisville Road.

The fire was discovered by one of the occupants of the apartments, John Lescheck, who smelled smoke and called Estadt. Estadt summoned firemen as Lescheck awakened the occupants of Richard J. Bowen, former Bristol Township manager, is out of a job again.

Bowen, who resigned his township position on Sept. 8, 1961, after two-and-a-half years, was dismissed from his job as city manager in Long Branch, N.J., Saturday night.

Bowen, under fire for most of his 18 months in office at Long Branch, has 23 days left to appeal his discharge by the city council.

The council voted Saturday at a special session to discharge him for failing "to maintain a harmonious relationship with all members of city council."

Bowen resigned his Bristol Township post in order that his "managerial efforts would continue to be fruitful." He was replaced by Vincent H. Hartley, former president of the township board of commissioners, who is now township manager.

The council first voted to give Bowen "no confidence" then to fire him. Both actions were carried by 6-3 margins.

Deputy Mayor Samuel A. Marks said Bowen can ask for a hearing on the ouster from his $13,000-a-year post and will be given access to the largest hall in the city for the hearing if he so desires.

trouble did not cause as much trouble as the road.

"We would have had an easier time on a softer surface," George said. "We kept slipping on the ice and the road wasn't flat in some places."

He said Clarke walked 17 miles with blisters. Morgan, who had a knee operation last year, began to get swelling around the knee, but held out as long as his companions.

George said he considered himself in pretty good shape, although the last long march he took was about five years ago.

Not Winded
He said he did not get winded, but that muscle sprains and blisters were agonizing. "I hung onto my pack straps the last five miles to keep going," he said.

"We pushed too hard. We didn't even take a break for the first four hours."

Two regular personnel from the Trenton Marine unit accompanied the three Lower Bucks reservists joining them in Trenton, but the regulars did not make it the entire 50 miles either. Sore feet and fatigue forced them out after 41 miles.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy made the march in 14 hours over the weekend and others prominent in government have pledged to give it a try.

The new building is expected to be ready to be used by the firemen for their firemen's training school this summer.

Next meeting of the Bucks County Firemen's Association will be held Saturday, March 9, at the Third District Fire House of Bristol Township.

The firemen eventually plan to have a firemen's school building and site that will cost between $100,000 and $150,000 with classrooms, auditorium, smoke house and other major training school needs and facilities.

Says Boehm Speaker

Sputnik Didn't Start Increase In Math Study

"Contrary to popular opinion, Sputnik's appearance was not the motivating force bringing about a change in the mathematics curriculum in the schools. The first study concerning change in the mathematics curriculum was begun 12 years before Sputnik," declared Donald Guenther, mathematics instructor at Charles H. Boehm High School in explaining the Modern Mathematics program at Boehm.

At a recent faculty meeting, Guenther who is also chairman of the Mathematics Department at Boehm, explained that research, automation and computing machines increased the demand for a more knowledgeable student. He pointed out that more mathematics has been discovered the years previous and obviously the mathematics curriculum had to be revised to meet the needs of the modern era.

New Approach

The new approach to teaching mathematics is to teach through unifying ideas or concepts rather than by rote and memorization. The major concepts which the department aims at are structure, graphical representation, sets, systems of numeration, and logical education.

Guenther explained that the modern mathematics taught at Boehm is based on the School Mathematics Study Group sponsored by the Federal government through the National Science Foundation. The texts used in the modern mathematics classes are published by the foundation until the commercial publishers produce satisfactory texts. At Boehm approximately 40 per cent of the students will be studying mathematics with these new texts by next year.

All classes at Boehm are exposed to modern mathematics concepts through the use of supplementary materials and teacher experience.

Boehm Plan Discussed

Following Guenther's explanation of the Modern Mathematics program, Mrs. Rita Oliver discussed the mathematics improvement program at Boehm for students who are not achieving up to their capacity.

Mrs. Helen Scammell, a mathematics instructor at Boehm, explained how the learning of mathematics relates to business education and the business world.

Ralph Hornberger and Richard Barnhart, mathematics instructors, completed the discussion on the mathematics program at Boehm by discussing the structural approach to teaching algebra.

W. Donald Henry, principal at Boehm, has included in each general faculty meeting a presentation of one phase of the program at Boehm in order that the entire staff increase their understanding and knowledge of the latest trends in areas aside from their own field.

Local Police Rescue Boys

An unidentified motorist who spotted three Trenton youths trapped on the ice-covered Delaware River called Lower Makefield police Saturday and prevented another weekend tragedy.

Sgt. Charles Ronaldo spotted the three off Rotary Island, about midway across the river from Lower Makefield. The youths are Kenneth Sniderman, 14, Alan J. Swern, 13, and James Walsh, 9. They were attempting to walk across the river.

Ronaldo saw the ice cracking and called rescue units from Morrisville, Yardley, Lower Makefield and Trenton. Meanwhile, he spoke to the three boys through a loudspeaker, warning them not to continue across to Pennsylvania.

Rescuers reached the boys at an island shack at about 2:15 p.m. and carried them to safety.

Said Sniderman: "We weren't afraid."

guards for Morrisville at noon tomorrow and a shiny new 1963 police car will be introduced to the force in a special ceremony.

Chief John S. Davis said today the three who will serve as standbys for crossing guards are Arthur W. Beadle, 639 Barclay Ave., Merrill S. Britton, 85 N. Pennsylvania Ave. and Pasquale Dabronze, 5 Robertson Ave., all Morrisville.

Morrisville Borough Council recently approved a motion to hire the men on a part-time basis at the rate of $1.41 per hour. The new car is a 1963 Chevrolet, which brings to two the number of Morrisville police patrol vehicles in operation. The car was delivered Saturday.

Mayor Robert C. Crowell is expected to conduct the swearing in ceremony at police headquarters at borough hall. Others scheduled to take part are Councilman Nicholas Pelehaty, chairman of council's police committee, and Chief Davis.

Gindin, president of the Parent-Teachers Association, for the Third Ward and Louis De Mario, active member of the Italian-American Club, for the Fourth Ward.

Salvatore Rossetti, president of the Grandview Civic Association, is captain for Grandview Estates and Percy C. Moon, borough secretary and prominent Rotary Club member, is organizing volunteers in his neighborhood.

Any of these captains will welcome help in making the house-to-house calls between "Valentine Day," Feb. 14, and "Heart Sunday," Feb. 24.

Jazz Drummer Gives Clinic At Boehm School

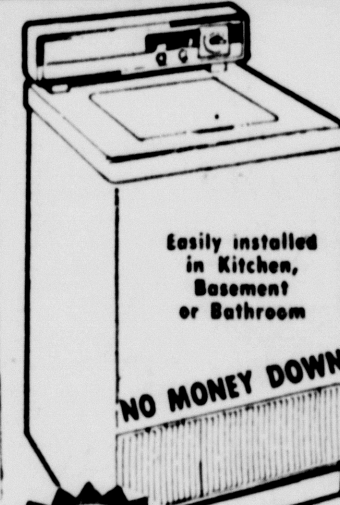

"The enthusiasm, the interest and the cooperation of the administrators of the Charles H. Boehm High School have made all this possible," remarked William Frabizio, instrumental instructor at Boehm when asked to comment on the success of the recent instrumental clinic held at the Boehm School.

For the first time in a Lower Bucks school, students at Boehm and other schools were given a clinic for percussion instruments by a noted percussion specialist and jazz drummer, Tony DiNicola. Boehm School is located on Big Oak Rd., Lower Makefield.

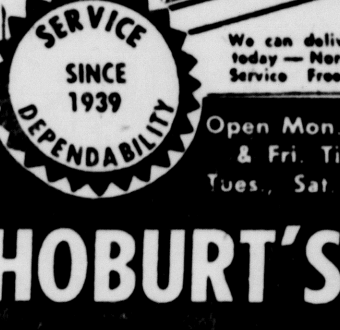

DiNicola gave a general review of the rudiments, techniques and shortcuts which can be used in the practice and teaching of percussion instruments, information that only can come from a real specialist in the field. To all of the students and invited guests, he explained the importance of sound and the place of drums in an instrumental group. He demonstrated on the instruments the various sounds which can come from drums and the part they can play in a musical number. Frabizio arranged for this unusual clinic and these who attended were percussion students from all of the Pennsylvania schools, as well as from Woodrow Wilson High School, and from the Trenton and Burlington High Schools.

The clinic was received with enthusiasm by all those in attendance and requests were made for repeat performances, perhaps with other instruments, according to Principal W. Donald Henry.
